The rejuvenation of King Brockett as a Brockett has pitched two full games for stallings's cayenne boys this season and shut his opponents out in both of them. Year ers he didn't do much. He went back to the ers he didn't do much. He went back to the minors for a year, and this year, reappearing as a major leaguer, shows the best of form every time he comes out, every time so far in any event, yesterday being his third appearance. He did well against Washington in the first game of the season after Newton had been benched.

BROOKLYN, 8; PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 3. Somebody had to stop the high flying Phillies, and the Brooklyns had no deep ooted objections to being the ones. They joited the Quakers hard at Washington Park yesterday, an unwilling instrument in the jolting being Earl Moore, whom the Brooklyns did so belabor in the fourth inning that they made five runs and sent Moore to a seciuded corner of the clubhouse to think it over. The Philadelphias scored first, and for that matter last, but the home players sure did rush runs around in a scandalous manner in between.

The glorious fourth began for Brooklyn with a single to left by Kustus. Jordan bunted, being bent on sacrificing, and made a single out of it. Lennox sacrificed, Moore filled up the bases with a pass to Bell and Burch dumped one down in front of the plate, beat it out and brought Kustus home. Alperman banged out a hit on which Jordan and Bell came through. Hummel spun a triple to right and Burch and Alperman scooted in on this leviathan larrup.

Brown, who pitched the rest of the game for the Phillies, was a vast improvement over Moore, but as Bell held the Phillies down, striking out eight of them, Brown's good work was of no use except to prevent further outbreaks by the enemy. The inning that they made five runs and sent men who were proved guilty in this respect were disciplined severely. One man, H. H. Lee of Augusta, Me., was fined $100 for making use of some forcible expletives at his native place last fall. The other man, Joseph Layden, was ruled off indefinitely for abusive language to officials of a race meet at his home townl ast year.

The case of the Nassau Fair Association of New Hampshire was gone into. N. C. Mullin, secretary of the association, and Charles L. Barnes, a Boston horseman, were the men mixed up in the squabble, it appears that Barnes made a conditional entry at a meeting given at the fair last fall and there were some things in the entry contrary to the rules, which caused a clash between the pair. The board thought that a fine of $25 each was punishment enough for what happened.

D. C. Rose of Charlotte, N. Y., was expelled for ringing at a trotting meet up the State last year. The evidence before the board showed that he ran a horse named Frasier in slow classes under the name of Prince of Rochester. The horse appeared in several small meets under this name in the northern part of the State and the opinion of the reviewing board was that the offence was deliberate enough to merit expulsion.

Last fall C. A. McCarthy of Yardley, Pa., entered a trotter named Aristo out of his class in a meet at Philadelphia. There being no contradictory evidence worth while McCarthy was fined $50, and besides he was ordered to return the money which the horse won.

C. H. Yale of Providence, R. 1., ruled of fittled the horse won. the horse won.

C. H. Yale of Providence, R. I., ruled off twelve years ago for entering a horse under a false name, was reinstated.

A number of minor cases which principally earned fines of $5 and $10 were quickly disposed of.

not until nearly the end of the second half that superior team play and better condition on the part of the home team began to tell. Harvard scored three times in rapid succession. Only poor shooting by Harvard forwards prevented a larger score.

Crew Shows Good Form in Final Spin Before Navy Race.

The Columbia varsity eight rewed bot! in the early morning and at noon yesterday and then loaded their shell and shipped i and then loaded their shell and shipped it to Annapolis where the annual race with the Middies will take place on Saturday afternoon over a two mile course on the Severn. Since the shakeup that Rice made in the boating of the first combination last week the crew has been rowing better than at any time this year. The sides are within one pound of balancing now and the boat does not roll nearly as much as it did in the early practice. With (latch at stroke the shell moves along with a great deal more snap than when terusst was in that position. Certissi, however, is pulling a strong oar at No., and the change from the port to starboard side of the boat does not seem to have affected the evenness of his stroke. In commenting on this Rice says that to his mind a change from one side of the boat to the other is the supreme test of an oarsman. Renshaw, who joined the squad just after the Harvard race and who was at once given a seat in the varsity eight, has shown great improvement, and there is no doubt as to his rowing No. 3 in the race on Saturday.

The Columbia squad will leave for Anto Annapolis where the annual race with

The Columbia squad will leave for Annapolis this afternoon and will row on the course to-morrow both in the morning and afternoon, and again on Saturday morning It will not be decided until to-day the number and names of the substitutes to be taken along.

N. Y. U. Crew Changes.

The New York University varsity crew is again in trouble. The entire first boat has been shaken up and shifted around to fill three vacancies. Alan More, the captain. has had to give up rowing in order to complete his work at the university within the next two weeks. More has rowed No. 7 in the boat since before the Annapolis race. Anderson's retirement from stroke and Flynn from No. 2 has also necessitated changes. Dutcher has been placed at stroke oar and is doing good work. Bathmann has been shifted from 5 to 7. W. Heiser is rowing 6 instead of 4. Al Heiser remains at 5 and J. Veseley is still at bow. A. Biddle, who rowed 2 until just before the Annapolis race, is at 4. Russell, a second boat man last year, is at 3 and Ahrens has been taken from this year's second crew and is rowing at 2. has had to give up rowing in order to com
